TENNIS DOUBLES

The first round of the tournament in tennis doubles has been played. All the matches, except the finals, are the best two in three. The finals are the best three in five.

The results of the preliminaries are as follows: Amsden and Woodward won from P. White and E. Campbell, (6-3, 6-1); L. Chen and C. Currier from Gilbert and Turner, (6-4, 6-3); Wyllie and Bijur from K. Perry and H. Trombly, (6-3, 6-1); Chapman and Whitmore from E. Parker and R. Field, (4-6, 6-3, 6-1).

Although there were not many entries in the doubles, the vim in the playing shows that Tech's opponents in tennis next spring will have trouble in giving much of a jar to Tech's reputation at tennis.

TECH LEAVES CLARK IN THE DARK IN X-COUNTRY MEET SCORE 15-40

Tech won the first six places in a X-country meet with Clark College last Friday afternoon. Harold Trombly finished first, followed closely by Garland, Hoar, Conway and Marston. From Alumni Field the course lay over Bancroft Hill, across the fields beyond, west to Newton Square, over Newton Hill to Park Avenue, back up Highland Street to Newton Square, over the hill a second time, and up Park Avenue to Alumni Field, a total distance of five and one-half miles. It had been previously decided that lowest score would win.

AFTERMATH MEETING

From now on there will be regular meetings of the Aftermath Board on Thursday afternoons at 5:00 P. M. On November 6 all the assignments thus far given out will be expected.

At a meeting of the Senior class, money enough to start with was appropriated.

Any man interested in drawing a few sketches for the Aftermath will please drop a note in the NEWS box.

MUSICAL CLUBS OUT OF THE HOLE

The final report of the Musical Clubs Dance Committee has been turned over to the president of the clubs and shows that the organization is entirely out of debt and a few dollars to the good. The dance on October 25th realized net profits of $111.28, while the debts of the clubs amounted to around $104.00. With the support of the student body, both in the make-up of the clubs and in the attendance at concerts, the clubs should henceforth be able to keep on top financially as well as on top with relation to their artistic standard.

JUNIORS THINK THEY ARE HALF WAY THROUGH

The Junior Class will hold its Half-Way Through Banquet on November 18, 1919, at the "Green Gables Tavern," at Northboro. The Committee has arranged for a special car to carry the class to and from the scene of action. The car will be at Lincoln Square, and will leave there about 6:30 p. m. The dinner will start probably about eight o'clock.

Financial considerations have also been taken up by the Committee which has decided that every man who intends to go to the banquet must pay to the collector in his division $2.50 before November 12, getting a receipt for that amount in return. In addition to that sum there will be required a further sum, probably about a dollar, before the night of the banquet.

As to entertainment, the only announcement that can be made at present is that R. G. Ferguson will be Toastmaster, while Prof. Zinn and Mr. Himmer will represent the faculty at the speaker's table.

The committee in charge of the banquet consists of the following men: C. A. Callahan, chairman; C. E. Skroder, A. L. Wilson, P. S. Sessions, E. D. Johnson, E. B. Saunders, M. Chase.

E. E. NOTES

Mark Eldredge, '06, who for several years has been an electrical engineer with the Tata Hydro-Electric Development of Bombay, India, and who for the past two years has been a captain in the U. S. Army doing engineering work at the Erie Proving Grounds, has accepted a position with the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates of Ludlow, Mass., and sails for India in November. He will be in charge of work connected with that company's developments in Calcutta.

Allen D. Wasal, '17, has been recently appointed assistant professor of electric engineering at New Hampshire State College.

Tech lost to Amherst by a score of 42 to 0, but the score tells nothing of the kind of a game. It was a Tech game from the start. Amherst seemed to have everything on the grey and crimson but Tech showed strength that was very unexpected by the Amherstites.

The game was hard-fought. Amherst advanced but she did so only through very hard work. Early in the game Tech started things by a drive down the field. But before a score could be made Shirley was out with a broken left elbow. Shirley was playing an AI game for Tech and if he had not been hurt the score would no doubt have been different.

In the first quarter Shirley seemed able to gain at will against Amherst. Zink of Amherst crossed Tech's goal in this period for the first score.

Immediately after the second Zink went over again—then Tech's line began to fight, and under the splendid guidance of Captain Manning many an Amherst play was smashed. Having an exceptional punter, Amherst saved herself from score in this period.

In the last quarter Tech's defense weakened under the strain and Amherst three times crossed the line.

Capt. Manning, Shirley, Canfield and Dexter played well for Tech, while Zink and Kilby were Amherst's stars. Tech is improving steadily and under the new coaching system is turning out a real football machine.

BOOST TECH

EDITORIAL

Perhaps the most practical reason for the fact that Tech's athletic standard is lower than it should be for a school of five hundred men is not the lack of time for practice but rather the lack of a proper training table. Theodore Roosevelt hated a man who broke training,—hated him as a weak-willed slacker, a moral pervert,—and Roosevelt was always admired for manly Americanism above all his other qualities, even by men who were averse to his political creeds. And when you get right down to shiny facts, a man who does commence training and then breaks it off during the season is to be pitied rather than despised although perhaps both—for his gelatinous character. It is a triumph of matter over mind—an attempted survival of the unfittest.

A training table is quite impracticable for Tech, with no dormitories or eating halls. But each man who tries out for a team can establish an individual training table and live up to its rules. Every athlete ought to do this,—from the standpoint of morality if for no other reason. The morality of athletics is rather a new viewpoint from which to speak, but it is a big one. A real Tech man tries for a team if he has the least chance of helping even as a scrub, for the good of the school and not through any personal phasuro. Then, if he goes out and joins the squad, and does not do his all, he is slacking and is not a concrete example of Tech Spirit as it should be. Now, a man who tries for a team and does not keep training rules is not doing his all; he is slacking; it is virtually a piece of disloyalty, of immorality!

It is admittedly hard to give up cake and sweets when we are fond of them, and ten o'clock is horribly early; cigarettes are delightful and many of us enjoy the dear old pipe. These things must go for proper training. In the big colleges where the athletic average is high, a man is often fired perfunctorily from the squad for breaking training, no matter how much talent he had for his particular branch of sport. If those in charge are willing to sacrifice quality for a good principle, why shouldn't we? Are our men weaker in character, with less self-control, will-power, and ability to deny themselves? Therefore, to dismiss an athlete for smoking or imbibing the charms of Bacchus is substantiating of a worthy principle, if we wish to look upon it thus, or on the contrary, a proper punishment for an unworthy team, if we consider it in that light. Whatever way we look at it, a breach of training repeated after a warning should be peremptorily punished with dismissal from the squad. The coach would thereby reveal himself a high-minded sort of athlete, a man who is working hard for his principles and not for vainglorious success. The team captain, to be the kind of example a captain ought to be, must keep strict training himself and insist upon his men following suit. The student body which supports the teams ought to insist upon having the men keep training. There is no reason why we cannot have teams composed of physically fit men, men who have the will to succeed and have really sacrificed something for the Institute. It is only a matter of the awakening of everybody to the need of training from both the physical and moral standpoint. It is the case of the house built either upon the sands of self-indulgence or upon the rock of self-sacrifice for a worthy purpose.

CLASS SOCCER

The Seniors have twenty good men out as candidates for their class team. They will practice hard Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. Watch the Seniors beat the Sophomores Saturday.

The outlook for the Junior soccer team is perhaps the most prosperous of all. They have nearly all of their material from their Freshman year left and have several additions from the Class of '20, which has won every class championship since soccer was first introduced at Tech. Practice Tuesday and Thursday night. All Juniors out!

Under the lightning-like leadership of Chen the Sophs intend to show up the Seniors Saturday. Sophomores! Practice Monday, Wednesday and Friday. All out!

Lee, '23, as captain of soccer team of the Freshmen intends to show the other classes a good team. Out of more than thirty candidates, he has eleven who are old at the game. All out Freshies and practice Tuesday and Thursday.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR MUSICAL ASSOCIATION

At present everything points towards a banner season for the W. P. I. Musical Association, both financially and with respect to work accomplished. The dance of Oct. 25 was a big success, as was described in last week's NEWS, and is expected to lift the organization entirely out of debt. Actual figures cannot be given, as all bills have not yet been received. Much favorable comment has arisen over the quality of music produced by the Club Orchestra, though the latter had very little opportunity for practice.

The Club is planning another dance for Saturday, November 15, following the big football game with R. I. State College, and promises that the music then will be still better. The Orchestra and Mandolin Club have practically all their old material available for the new year, and only a short time will be needed to get it into form once more. The Glee Club, on the other hand, is being entirely reorganized this season, and will make its first appearance by giving a short concert at this dance. Only those directly connected with the Glee Club have any idea as yet what a first-class organization is being trained and perfected at Tech this year, and every man on the Hill, whether he dances or not, will do well to be on hand November 15 for its official debut.

A few facts about the Glee Club may serve to emphasize this point. There are thirty places on the official "team," and over fifty men are attending rehearsals. Vernon Tallman, a graduate of M. I. T., with practical experience in Glee Club work at that institution, is acting as coach. There are four complete quartets competing for first place in that branch. The club includes several soloists and a reader. Following the Christmas recess a series of concert tours will be made, one of which will include Gardner, Winchendon and the northern part of Massachusetts. A total of sixteen concerts is being contracted for.

RIFLE CLUB

At a meeting of the Rifle Club last Wednesday the following officers were elected:

President—R. M. Eldred, '21
Treasurer—R. W. Cushman, '21
Secretary—E. Parker, '20
Captain—E. L. Thayer, '20

Rifle practice begins this week with prospects of an excellent team for the year.

Every man ought to be familiar with a rifle and this is an excellent chance for the improvement of your steadiness.

INTER-CLASS FOOTBALL

Plans are about complete for the Interclass football and the first game will probably be played on November 10. There should be a very interesting contest between the Sophomores and Freshmen this year, as there is some very good material in both classes.

Bushnell is captain of the Freshman outfit, while Mason is leading the Sophomore warriors. There are several Varsity men in both classes and the class teams will be built around these players. The Sophomores have a very strong back field, with Mason, Needham, Brown and Shirley at the points. Besides the above all-Varsity back-field, there are plenty of men in the class to furnish a pretty stiff line. The Freshmen also have several Varsity men to draw from, with Bushnell, Dexter, Colby, Passini, Bliss and a number of others who have not attempted the Varsity their first year in Tech.

There will be plenty of good football when these two teams line up, and it is an even go between the two lower classes.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

The Washburn shops are continually increasing in commercial value. Recently an order for sixty drawing stands for the Alabama Girls' Technical Institute was received. These stands will be fitted up with quartered oak tops and the patented raising and lowering attachment.

Mr. George H. Frary, '88, was a recent visitor at the Institute. His son is a member of the Sophomore class.

J. L. Manson, '16, has accepted a position with the engineering division at the American Steel and Wire Company and will be located in Worcester.

CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

Louis Zions, '19, has a position in the Control Department of the Mathieson Alkali Works at Niagara Falls, N. Y. There he has become a member of the Round Table, a society of chemists, in which Henry R. Powers, '11, a former instructor at Tech, is one of the most active members.

The idea of the shingle, used here by the Sceptical Chymists, has been adopted by the Round Table after being outlined by Mr. Zions.

The next meeting of the Sceptical Chymists is to be held Tuesday evening. Dr. Ewell of the Physics Department will speak.

DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

As yet, the Dramatic Association has failed to receive any new manuscripts for the Tech Show, and it is desired that such students who intend to write manuscripts, shall hand in their names to General Manager Firth.

It is up to us to swing a good Tech Show this year, and surely some of us must have good ideas as to how one should go. Let everybody make a stab at that $50.00.

Junqueira, '16, from Manas, Brazil, indicates that he is actively engaged in many lines of business connected directly or indirectly with electrical engineering in Brazil. He is the only TECH NEWS subscriber in South America.

Application has been made and it is expected that a license will soon be granted for the operation of the Institute wireless station on a pre-war basis.
